He is very nice dog. His hind quarters lack firmness. Very nice depth of chest and fore chest. Needs better conditioning for the show ring but still being a puppy this may change. I think he is very good dog. The top line is not firm though this may improve as he matures but at this point in time it is not so hard.

Overall he has a well built body. He moves well down and back, a little bit of pacing around because he lacks a little angulation of the stifle. Very good fore chest and depth of chest. He is a short bodied male, head is nice. The adult dentition is not yet complete; the bite is very good so far. He can be a promising dog but he will need to be well trained as he has the tendency to pace due to his lack of angulation in the stifle but it a very nice dog.

His general appearance is that he has more length in the legs than depth of the chest. The head is a lit bit coarse when you look from the front. He has a strong top line. He is lacking a little bit in front angulation so his reach is poor when he is moving around. The chest is lacking as it does not reach the elbow. He has a little bit more angulation in the rear than in the front at this stage. I think that in some years he can develop into a beautiful dog if the chest develops as this would improve his general appearance. He moves very well down and back. He is a very good dog.

He is a black dog with a very good general appearance. He is very short bodied, very good bone. He is very well muscled. Good feet, nice depth of chest and fore chest. Nice coat. His top line is a little bit sloping, due to the croup. He lacks one tooth. He moves very well down and back. He is lacking a little bit in front angulation and this does affect his reach when he moves around. He is an excellent dog.

Black dog. The general appearance is nice. He is square dog. He is lacking in front and rear angulation. The upper arm is little bit short. Good feet, good pasterns. The movement down and back is good. The head planes seem to be parallel. The eyes are a little bit light for a black male. He is a very good dog.

A black male. His general appearance is that of a strong dog, nice coat, the head is a little bit coarse. He has strong pasterns. The forequarters are a little bit forward. The main problem with this dog is his top line which is not so strong. When he moves around the top line is a little soft. He lacks a bit of front angulation, so is lacking a bit in reach. There is an imbalance between the front and rear angulation. The croup could be better. He is a very good dog.

The upper arm is a little bit short so when he moves around the reach is a little bit lacking, he has good drive. So due to this there is an imbalance when he moves around. Nevertheless he is a very nice dog. Strong top line. He is an excellent dog.
